

Book Review Will Benefit Tabernacle

"A House of Many Rooms" to Be Reviewed on Friday Night

On Friday, July 30 at 8:15 P. M. a truly unique experience will be brought to the people of Heber Valley. In their memories, parents, grandparents and friends will live anew.

THIS IS MADE POSSIBLE thru the literary genius of Mrs. Rodello Hicken Hunter, author of the book "A House of Many Rooms", and through the amazing ability of Mrs. Dora D. Flack to make the book live for those who hear her review. This program will have greatly added significance as it will be presented in the historic Heber Tabernacle, which was completed shortly before the story begins. The book covers the period 1886 to 1936 in Heber Valley.

BESIDES THE APPEAL of the history of one of Utah's most beautiful mountain valleys, Mrs. Flack will present four authentic folk ballads which were recalled by the author and set to music. Included will be "Come Here My Son" (sung by Papa), "White Felither" (a Scottish ballad Grandma sings), "Come Home Early Tonight My Dear Boy" and "A Little Bit of Love." In this day and age when folk singers hunt for months for original ballads handed down thru the generations, this will be a rare treat.

MRS. HUNTER'S BOOK has already been received with enthusiasm by thousands of readers, although only recently released. In Salt Lake City alone over 1,000 copies have been sold. The Reader's Digest printed an article by the author in the August issue and will soon release the book as a selection of it Book Club. Alfred A. Knopf, the publisher, has paid Mrs. Hunter a rare tribute in predicting that the book will sell millions of copies. Mrs. Hunter has been receiving letters from people all over the United States who want to know where Heber Valley is. They are interested in bringing their families to visit the locale so vividly described in "A House of Many Rooms."

MRS. FLACK IS A professional reviewer of much note, familiar to thousands in Salt Lake and Bountiful. Mrs. Flack has stated that she thinks it will be the greatest thrill of her life to present this story in the beautiful old Heber

Tabernacle with its classic pioneer architecture, where part of the story took place.
